

RDS Offers Multifunction Printer/Scanner Miami, And a Little Office Humor.

Keeping your business running smoothly and making a profit isn't always easy, especially when your office equipment breaks down or you don't have the right equipment in the first place. It causes a lot of headaches and depression. Fortunately, RDS has the eco-friendly solution for these problems. We provide new and used multifunction copiers in Miami with financing options that will solve anyone's budget problems, even with bad credit or no credit.

Sometimes it takes a little more to soothe the ragged nerves from a day of trying to solve one problem after another. Sometimes it takes a bit of levity to get us all back on track. And a good joke in the middle of the day just might be the solution, temporarily at least. Here are a few good ones to pass around and create a smile.

The reason I'm exhausted.

For years I've been blaming my exhaustion on lack of sleep and the pressure I go through on this crazy job of mine. But, I finally hit on the cause of all of this. My job is simply working me to death! I can't stand it!

Let's look at some facts:

The United States population is 237 million, right? 10 million of those are retired. So we have 133 million left.

Out of those, there are 85 million students. So we now have 48 million left to do all the work.

29 million of those are government workers. So, where are we now? 19 million.

2.8 million are in the military. That means we now have 16.2 million to do it all.

14,880,000 work for the city and state governments around the country. So now we are at 1.4 million.

You can check the hospitals at any given time and find 188,000. So now we have 1,212,000 to get everything done.

And, don't forget, we have to count the 1,211,998 in prisons. So, we're now looking at two people to get everything done. Me and you.

And you're hunched over your computer reading office jokes.

Loyal Secretary

Martha has been with the same company all her life practically and had worked her way up to become the boss's secretary. She was really a nice lady, but people were jealous of her, for some reason. Every day when Martha arrived at the office, she settled herself at her desk and would open the bottom drawer of her desk, look briefly inside, and then lock the door. Strange! She had been with the company a long time and finally she passed away. After Martha was gone, her coworker, Sharon, who sat behind her, just couldn't hold herself back from all the curiosity. She decided that one way or the other, she was going to see what was in that drawer.

After a week, or so, of looking for the key, she finally found it. The more she thought about it, the more sweat she was building up from the anticipation of finding out what was in the drawer. She finally opened the drawer and inside was a single folded piece of paper. She gradually removed the paper from the drawer as she was checking to be sure no one was looking. She waited for a minute and finally opened the paper. Here's what it said "Be sure not to put more than one spoonful of sugar in the boss's coffee."

Get That Raise.

Sam has been hemming and hawing all morning about talking to the boss. Finally, he walks in and gets up the nerve to speak. "Boss, I'll get right to the point, I know that business has been bad and the economy isn't showing any prospects for things getting any better, but I just thought I should let you know that I have three companies after me right now. After some back and forth conversation, with both parties arguing over the pros and cons of Sam staying with the company, the boss finally agrees to a 6% raise and Sam abruptly gets up and heads for the door.

"Oh, Sam, just out of curiosity, which three companies are after you now?" "The electric company, water company, and phone company" Sam answered.

RDS Business Dinner Humor

Our company had a dinner gathering with all family members for everyone in the company. It really was a grand affair. But, before the proceedings got started, the president of the company took the floor and made this announcement, " we are happy to see everyone here tonight and it's great to see all the family members. Before I remind everyone about how great your company is at supplying the best used copiers in Miami, we would like to ask everyone to please put your cell phone and the children on vibrate."

Are You Really The Boss?

Our boss was getting on his high horse one day at the weekly managers meeting and complaining that the folk in his group weren't showing any respect for him and his position. So, to get his point across, the next day he showed up with a new sign that he quickly put on his door. The sign said, "I am the boss".

Charlie, one of the managers, obviously not appreciating this new move by the boss stuck a small post-it not on the boss's sign that said, "Your wife called and asked for her sign back."

It's really easy to get caught up in the stress and strain of everyday office demands. Sometimes it's a good idea to stop, talk a breath and read a joke. We all need a laugh now and then.
